SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE HERALB. Foulan Attempt at Rescue of Rebel Invaders-Collision Between the Police and a Mob-One Man Killed and Many Wounded. DERLIN June 14 1867.

As four Fenian prisoners-officers, who held commissions in the American army during the late war, and who were in the party of invaders arrested a short time since after landing at Dungarvan-were being taken from the court house to the county Waterford jail yesterday evening, after an examination by the magistrates, a large and very numerous mob attempted to rescue them.

They made a severe attack on the police escort, a strong party, which had the men in charge, assailing the constables with stones and other mis-

The rioters came from all parts of the city of Waterford, and over thirty of the police were wounded during the affray.

Of the mob one man was killed by the fire of the police, a few wounded and some few others

CRUDE PETROLEUM AS A SUBSTITUTE FOR COAL. Boston, June 14, 1867.

A very important invention for substituting crude petroleum in the place of coal in steam navigation was tested on the government steamer Palos to-day, Chief petroleum in the place of coal in steam navigation was tested on the government steamer Palos to-day, Chief Engineer Henderson, of the Charlestown Navy Tard, and Chief Engineer Kellogg being present as government. Commissioners to investigate and report on the experiments; also C hief Engineer Stimers, Colonel R. H. Foote, of Tennessee, the inventor, and bis partners in the enterprise, Mesers. J. B. Winsor, of Pennsylvanis, and S. B. Ailen, of Boston. Several well known merchanis and scientific gentlemen were also on board. Steam was got up in twenty-five minutes, and the Palos proceeded down the harbor, around the Great Brewsters and back to the Navy Yard, a distance of twenty-five matical mites, in one hour and fifty-five minutes. In making the trip she consumed but four barrels of oil.

The Palos was built for the government as an eight knot boat, and with coal could never be made to exceed that speed. The fires are kindled and extinguished with nearly the same ease as lighting and extinguishing gas burners. A pipe from petroleum tanks on deck supplies the furnsee burners. The dames produced in the furnaces are intensely hot. The government engineers expressed themselves surprised at the results obtained, which can hardly fait, when the new apparatus is fully perfected, to create a great revolution in river and ocean steam navigation. Much greater apped, and economy of tabor, fuel and space, with equal safety, are among the benefits anticipated from Colonel Fome's invention. The trial to-day was initiatory, to be olic wed by seven other trial trips, to be made under the sanction of the government.

Instantly, the engineer gave the alarm by repeatedly blowing the whistle, which the man in the first instance seemed to obey; but as the locometive passed and the first passenger car had almost gone by, he seemed determined to go toward the train, which was then under full headway. The consequence was that he was knocked one side with great velocity. The cars were stopped, and the man was picked up as dead, but after a few moments life was perceptible. He was conveyed to the next station, Newtown, when a doctor was summoned, but, before his arrival, the man was dead. His remains were then conveyed to Flushing, where an inquest was held. The deceased has not as yet been identified. He is supposed to have resided in the vicinity of Laurel Hill. From the prevailing impression of those who witnessed the affair, the acts of the deceased indicated that he premediated suicide.

The only real comfortable standing room in the place was on the tables or in the restaurants where the ladies dispensed refreshments and amilies in abundance, and took good care to charge a high price for both. However, isst evening was not the last evening of the Fair, as the managers found it impossible yeaterday to settle with all their patrons in the way of distributing the prizes won by the fortunate ones. To-night will probably witness the closing of the Fair, although it may yet be found necessary to postpone this event to Monday evening. The voting for the cope was closed at half-past ten o'clock last evening, and the result of the ballotting will be made known to-night. On Tuesday evening a grand hop, and on Monday a concert, at which Richard O'Gorman, Esq., will not sing but deliver an address the young ladies who have done so much for the Fair, will take place and thus fitly close the Fair. It is expected that $200,000 will have been realized by the Fair over and above all evenings.
